

Jax Wax Australia officially launched their new packaging at Olympia Beauty in the UK. The focus on Australian flora for the names of the waxes was received with excitement, a spokesperson said.

The Australian aesthetics industry celebrated its annual 'Oscars', the MyFaceMyBody Australasia Awards, with a gala dinner in Sydney. Held at the Hilton Hotel and hosted by MyFaceMyBody founder Stephen Handisides, the event attracted 350 of the industry's leading professionals as well as media and celebrities.

The annual Pevonia Awards recognised and commended the most outstanding Pevonia salons, spas, therapists and spa managers. A total of 12 awards were awarded across four categories.

For the first time since launching in 2015, The Advanced Skills Academy opened its doors to its Student Skills Clinic at Bundall on the Gold Coast to the public. A team of experienced dermal and laser trainers offered a behind-the-scenes glimpse at the medi-aesthetics industry during an evening of cheese, champagne and cosmetic treatments.

Beauty media and bloggers celebrated the launch of Love OPI, XOXO and the announcement that OPI has partnered with Tash Sefton and Elle Ferguson with cocktails and manicures. Guests were given monogrammed OPI pouches and had the opportunity to take nail selfies.

Mesoestetic's CEO and founder, Joan Carles Font, visited our shores for the first time to present at a media launch organised by Advanced Cosmeceuticals. The event was held at La Porte Space where attendees were treated to canapés and a two-course lunch prepared by Dining Abode, before taking home a gift bag and an anti-ageing treatment voucher.
